

Potential Topics for Your Group or Event

& Speaking for Him

There are a number of topics available depending upon your group or organization's focus. At HIM, Inc we specialize and speak on relational skills and I have presented to groups and at retreats as inspirational speakers on: relationship enrichment, personal assessment, as well as personal growth.

Topic suggestions:

* “How to have fair F.I.G.H.T.S.” Everyone has their own method of dealing with disagreements but in this presentation I teach the methods of fair fighting and how to create an environment for this to happen. Each one of the letters in F.I.G.H.T.S. is used to convey principles in learning that if you Face each other and Touch, you are less likely to have the situation escalate into a heated discussion. When the F.I.G.H.T.S. principles are used, they are extremely effective.

* Forgiveness is a much needed principle to be taught. “East? West? Which way did they go?” is the topic name that I use to describe how God views our sin when He forgives. All too often we cannot forgive ourselves for our past and Satan has a hay day with reminding us of what we did wrong. I present that with confession of our sin God is able to forgive us and how we are able to forgive ourselves and others through the forgiveness that He offers us. Harboring unforgiveness hinders our prayers. The point of the message is -- there is forgiveness, we are told in His word to forgive, and forgiving opens the door between us and God in our prayer life.

* Another well-received topic is, “Can you fix a leaky faucet?” This is taken from Proverbs 19:13, Proverbs 21:9 and Proverbs 21:19. This is a presentation that encourages wives not to nag and to be accountable to God for their speech and actions within their relationships. The goal is to help them be able to create an inviting environment for their husband's arrival home at the end of the workday. Within this presentation I also incorporate the “Love Bank” principles and how we make deposits and withdrawals in our relationships by how we treat one another.

* For Relationships, I often cover “The Top Ten Needs” that couples have and how to learn to identify them within their own relationship. Through this process they are able to build a stronger relationship with their husbands and thus create a more harmonious home life for them and their families.

* “Personalities – How You Like to Give and Receive Information” A different fun topic which helps to understand how they play a role in their relationships. I have the participants do a brief self-evaluation, which helps them to understand their own personality. Then I cover how their personality type likes to give and receive information. They come away with the realization that this has a great deal of impact on how they deal with the relationships in their lives. This too helps them better understand the personality types of their spouses and children, enabling them to learn how to have better communication and more harmonious home life.

 It's Time to Loose That Weight in Your Relationship”

This theme explores how we carry the weight of our upbringing into our homes thus affecting how we react and respond within our relationships. I explore the impact of our thought life and how we can change it with Christ's help. Once we identify those areas that we need to take responsibility for, we can make the choice to make change where change is needed or make what is good even better. The central theme is found in II Cor. 10:5b and Phil 4:8.

* The topic of “Intimate Issues for Women” has proven to be quiet desired topic. This presentation deals with the top twenty questions that Christian women have with regard to their sexuality. Some of the questions that can be covered are:

How can I remain faithful in a faithless world?

How can I recapture the passion I once had?

How can I put the sizzle back in sex?

How can I enjoy sex when I don't like my body?

Society has stolen our joy of intimacy by turning it into something “dirty.” I help women understand what God's view is on this topic and the fact that sexual intimacy is not something to be thought of as being “taboo.” Unfortunately the Christian community has often given the impression that it should not be something to be embraced or enjoyed. I am not able to cover all twenty questions, but I do cover the top five that Christian women have.

* Another subject that could be presented is, “There Can be HOPE in a Mixed Up World” This topic takes its emphasis from Jeremiah 29, “For I know the plans I have for you,” declares the LORD , “plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future.” I present the importance of how God desires for us to lean on him in all circumstances even though we cannot seem to see any hope.

All of my presentations are presented from a biblical perspective incorporating humor in an upbeat non-threatening format.

I am also open to other topics by request.
